Miss Conolly, who is in charge of the Russian Section of our Foreign Office research department, is going to Cyprus for her holiday and wants to visit your station while she is there. A good deal of the material with which we supply her section comes from the Cyprus monitoring and she feels therefore that it would be useful to her to meet some of the monitors and editors there. We have a good deal of contact with Miss Conolly and her colleagues and we find it very stimulating and useful, and I have said that I have no doubt your people in Cyprus would feel the same.

I have told Miss Conolly to make any approach through Wilson, and I have instructed him to ensure that her visit is arranged with due regard to the convenience of your staff there.

I am pretty sure it will meet with your approval but I thought you would like to be informed of this proposed visit to your station.

Yours sincerely,
